GRANT-IN-AID REIMBURSEMENT POLICY

The Rockefeller Archive Center's (RAC) competitive grant-in-aid program provides awards of up to $4,000 for reimbursement of receipted expenses for travel and accommodation in conjunction with a grantee's research visit to the RAC. An independent committee will review each application based on the applicant's research topic and the availability of relevant material in the RAC's collections. Award amounts will vary depending on the committee's decision. Awards are made to individuals. Institutions are not eligible to apply.

Application to the grant-in-aid program is open to U.S. citizens, resident aliens, and citizens of foreign countries. U.S. Government requirements, which apply to resident aliens and non-U.S. citizens, are described later in this document.

Reimbursement for research-related expenses will be authorized upon presentation of receipts after the completion of the research visit. The RAC will not be able to reimburse expenses without receipts.

For reimbursement, fill out both pages of the reimbursement form (see pages 3 and 4), and send them as email attachments, along with scanned copies of all receipts, to nhochman@rockarch.org. You may also mail paper copies of both pages of this form, along with receipts to: Norine Hochman, Rockefeller Archive Center, 15 Dayton Avenue, Sleepy Hollow, NY 10591.

The following research-related expenses – long distance travel to and from the RAC, local transportation to and from the RAC, and temporary lodging – are reimbursable, with receipts, under the terms of an RAC grant-in-aid:

- LONG-DISTANCE TRAVEL

Long-distance travel constitutes travel over 75 miles, each way, from your residence to the RAC. Grantees will be reimbursed for one consecutive research visit. Reimbursable types of long-distance travel are Economy Class round-trip air, train, bus travel, or rental of a compact or mid-size automobile (gasoline and tolls are reimbursable with car rentals). The RAC cannot reimburse First Class or Business Class travel. Round-trip airport transfers between your home and your local airport and a NY-area airport and your NY-area accommodations are reimbursable.

Mileage for the use of your personal car for the round-trip long-distance journey of more than 75 miles each way between your home and the RAC will be reimbursed for one consecutive research visit. Gasoline receipts are not necessary in cases of personal auto use. Auto mileage reimbursement rates will be computed by the RAC using the U.S. Internal Revenue Service mileage allowance current at the time of your visit. Distances will be computed by the RAC using an Internet mapping service. Tolls are reimbursable with receipts (EZ Pass statements are acceptable.)

Auto mileage rates will be computed by the RAC using the U.S. Internal Revenue Service mileage allowance current at the time of your visit.
